Section 3(d)

Please list the steps you have taken to assure yourself you have not acquired citizenship of another country by descent, marriage or other means.

None of my parents or grandparents have or had citizenship of another country.

My wife became an Australian Citizen after coming to Australia when she was three years of age. In 1988, at the time my wife became an Australian citizen, dual citizenship with South Korea was not allowed.

In any event, even if my spouse was found to have a current right to dual citizenship with South Korea, under the South Korean Nationality Act, a person does not automatically become a Korean by marrying a Korean national. An application process is required (see Article 6 of the Nationality Act of South Korea). I have never undertaken such a process.
